The person should also be a self-starter who is prepared to own, define, develop, and consistently deliver on annual revenue targets. The successful candidate will also be responsible for key account management. As a people leader, the ability to coach, motivate and support individual team members while building sales will be key to your success

This position will include the following responsibilities and day-to-day functions, but is not limited to:

- Lead and grow the sales team in building relationships with business clients and manage negotiations of sales contracts.
- Grow sales volume and keep current with changing trends, economic indicators, and competitors.
- Establish and maintain a direct relationship with key accounts.
- Further develop boar stud and gilt multiplier relationships.
- Manage and maintain existing Fast Genetics sales accounts.
- Analyze sales data and develop budgets, targets, and sales goals.
- Manage, support, mentor, and coach the sales team.
- Keep a pulse on market conditions.
- Work to grow Fast Genetics' market share.

The successful candidate would ideally possess the following experience and qualifications:

- Sales and/or account management experience in the agriculture industry with a proven track record of success.
- Minimum of 5 years' experience in account management.
- Bachelor's Degree in Animal Science or Commerce related field is an asset.
- Knowledge of swine genetics and production.
- Excellent leadership and interpersonal skills.
- Dedication to providing great customer service.
- Demonstrated business acumen, time management, and ability to prioritize.
- Outstanding communication skills both written and verbal.
- Organized, motivated, and energetic.
- Detailed oriented.
- Ability to learn and adapt in a growing environment.
- Strong business, interpersonal and persuasive negotiation skills.
- Ability to travel and work flexible hours.
- Shares in Fast Genetics core values.

What we offer

- Dynamic, challenging work for talented individuals.
- A competitive salary that is based on the successful candidate's experience and qualifications.
- Comprehensive benefits package and a registered pension plan, with a 4% employer match.
- Inclusive work environment.
